PROFILE

I'm a systems thinker with a knack for micro interactions and finer details. I like figuring out what should exist, what it should feel like, and how to make it happen.

EXPERIENCE

Product Designer

May 2019 — present

Google

San Francisco, CA

- Leading action strategies in AI Mode—encouraging deeper interaction, reducing the effort required to find more information or act on responses, and making AI Mode feel intuitive.
- Led UX for Search Labs, a key part of Google's AI innovation in Search. Defined and launched a system for hosting and branding experiments, enabling teams across Google to test new ideas.
- Led UX strategy and execution for a revamped Stadia storefront, increasing SKU sales by 12%. The work influenced platform-wide design enhancements and positioned the storefront as a key driver of the user experience.
- Played a key role in the Google Workspace launch, focusing on interaction design frameworks for desktop. Collaborated with cross-functional teams across Drive, Chat, and Gmail to improve productivity and collaboration.
- Collaborated with cross-functional partners to bring Dark Mode to Gmail, incorporating user feedback to create an accessible and visually appealing experience.

UX Design Intern

May — Sept 2017

Blizzard Entertainment

Irvine, CA

- Led the onboarding experience for new Heroes of the Storm users.
